Catch up on plan review backlogs, ICC professional plan review service can help

Many building departments face the challenge of keeping up with demand for plan reviews without delaying construction as a result of local building booms. The International Code Council can help. ICC offers plan review services to building departments and other governmental agencies. ICC plan review services provide cost-effective, accurate plan reviews with turnaround times coordinated to the jurisdiction needs.

ICC technical staff are code experts with extensive knowledge of the International Codes and the model codes produced by the three organizations that now make up the ICC.

ICC plan reviews provide accurate code interpretations, determine code compliance, and include a detailed checklist of code violations and free follow-up consultations. Licensed engineers and architects supervise all ICC plan reviews.

In addition to plan review services, ICC also offers technical consulting. Whenever questions arise related to the International Codes, or older legacy model codes, ICC's professional staff is available to provide technical expertise.

For more information on ICC plan review services, visit <http://www.iccsafe.org/planreview> or 1-800-214-4321, ext. 309.

The ICC, a 50,000 member association dedicated to building safety, develops the codes used to construct residential and commercial buildings, including homes and schools. The majority of U.S. cities, counties and states that adopt codes choose building safety and fire prevention codes developed by the ICC.
